

When devising any policy please consider the situation of both single people (or number of adults living in a house) and pensioners. Allowances should be made which, at the very least, are the same as those made in other areas of the UK. Similarly there should be a cap on charges as applies in other areas of the UK.